DPT Laboratories renews sponsorship of American Association of Pharmaceutical Scientists

SAN ANTONIO (Oct. 29, 2009) – DPT Laboratories, a contract development and manufacturing organization, announced today it has renewed its commitment as a sustaining sponsor of the American Association of Pharmaceutical Scientists (AAPS). DPT's one-year extension as a sustaining sponsor will support programs such as AAPS Career Services, workshops, student chapters, online journals and many other activities. The sponsorship will also underwrite future programs that support the AAPS mission.

"We share an excellent relationship with AAPS, as many of our clients and staff scientists are members," said John W. Feik, Jr., DPT director of Marketing & Corporate Development. "DPT strongly supports AAPS' commitment to excellence and furthering the advancement of pharmaceutical products and the exchange of scientific knowledge."

"DPT has consistently supported AAPS over the years, and we are delighted that they have agreed to continue its sustaining sponsorship of the association," stated AAPS Executive Director John Lisack, Jr. CAE. "The support of sponsors like DPT enables us to continue providing premiere educational programming, professional development, and networking opportunities for more than 12,000 AAPS members in the pharmaceutical sciences."

DPT is among an elite group of 7 pharmaceutical, biotechnology and healthcare companies currently serving as sustaining sponsors, the highest level of AAPS sponsorship. As part of the agreement, AAPS will promote DPT as a sustaining sponsor at AAPS events and media through 2010.
