DPT names Luis Velez Director of Development Services

SAN ANTONIO – DPT Laboratories, a contract development and manufacturing organization, announced today that Luis Velez has been named Director of Development Services.

In this position, Velez will lead the Project Management team and focus on implementing management programs such as LEAN and Process Excellence.

“I look forward to joining the DPT team and contributing to processes that will exceed our clients’ expectations,” Velez said.

“Luis has a strong track record of project management success, and a grasp of advanced business management concepts that will further strengthen our leadership among contract development and manufacturing organizations,” said Lyle Flom, DPT Vice President of Development & Commercial Services.

Velez brings 15 years of pharmaceutical industry experience to DPT, including his previous position with Cordis USA as New Products Transfer Director, based primarily in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico. In that position, he led all new products and processes transfers for the pharmaceutical company, including pilot lines operations in Mexico, California and Ireland.

He has a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering from the University of Puerto Rico and a master’s degree in business administration in quality management and project management from the University of Turabo in Puerto Rico. He also has obtained advanced management skills certifications, including LEAN and Six Sigma Green Belt.
